

SOUNDS LIKE NASHVILLE

Rascal Flatts Plan to Step Up Their Game for Second Las Vegas Run

LAUREN LAFFER • FEBRUARY 3, 2016 - 8:33 AM

Rascal Flatts will be calling Las Vegas home for a short time once again when they resume their residency later this month.

“Rascal Flatts Rhythm & Roots,” will run at the Hard Rock Hotel’s The Joint from Wednesday, Feb, 17 through Saturday, March 5.

“It’s a wonderful, wonderful venue to play and sort of experiment, spread your wings, and sort of get ready for the rest of the year,” Jay DeMarcus told Sounds Like Nashville exclusively. “And we try a bunch of stuff and the stuff that sticks, we take out on the road for the summer tour.”

“Through all of our years of making music and putting shows on, no one’s ever seen Rascal Flatts in this capacity before,” Gary LeVox added. “And it’ll only be for this Vegas show. We’ve been in rehearsals. It’s going to be phenomenal!”

For the Flatts, Vegas is just another way to step up their game. “So many great artists have played there over the years, so you walk into that gig going, ‘okay, gotta bring your A-game. You gotta raise the roof off the place and push yourselves in ways you haven’t before,’” the band’s Joe Don Rooney explained.

Tickets for “Rascal Flatts Rhythm & Roots” are currently on sale. For more information on the show, visit hardrockhotel.com/las-vegas-concerts.