Being "Somewhere on a Beach" with Dierks Bentley is about to get a little hotter.

Bentley will add the much buzzed about singer-songwriter Tucker Beathard to his Somewhere on a Beach tour line-up, which already includes supporting acts Randy Houser and Cam.

The tour will kick off in Dublin on April 21. Bentley, 40, will play three more European dates before arriving stateside at New Jersey's PNC Bank Arts Center on May 12. The tour also stops in 36 other North American cities in support of his upcoming eighth studio album, Black.

Bentley's new single is also titled "Somewhere on a Beach" and he says picking that song was a no brainer. "I'm ready to have fun already," he told EW. "And I know that's something we're all going to have fun singing."

Fans can purchase tickets beginning Jan. 29 for select cities as part of Live Nation's Country Megaticket.
