Jason Aldean's Burn It Down tour has now sold more than two million tickets, with shows coming up at MetLife Stadium near New York and two shows at Boston's Gillette Stadium. In addition to playing stadium dates with pal Kenny Chesney, Jason continues playing amphitheatres and arenas around the country.

"I'll always be surprised to look up and see that many people...the Aldean Army is rocking harder than ever," Jason says. "But the thing that really kills me is when I look up and see their faces and see how much these songs really mean to them."
