Best We're Not on Hiatus: Lady Antebellum With Cam

Country fans might be getting used to Lady Antebellum's absence after a year away from the spotlight, but Thursday night at Nissan Stadium, Cam helped prove they really haven't gone anywhere. She and Lady A teamed up for a surprise appearance in front of 60,000 screaming fans, adding caramel-smooth harmonies and a potent female-to-female component first to her "Burning House" breakthrough and then to the trio's epic crossover smash "Need You Now." Standing side-by-side and performing with only acoustic instruments, the chill-bump performance signaled that Lady A can get back in the game anytime they darn well please.
