Tucker Beathard Reveals the Wild Gift Request from Tour-Mate Dierks Bentley

If you're wondering what to buy for the man in your life this upcoming holiday season, you might want to consider a six-pack of beer and a roll of duct tape.

At least, that's what works for Dierks Bentley — just ask his recent tour-mate, Tucker Beathard.

“I was fortunate enough to be on the Dierks Bentley tour this summer,” Beathard tells PEOPLE Now. “After the tour ended he came up to me and was like, ‘Dude, I don’t know what to get you for an after-tour gift’ and I was like, ‘I don’t want nothing...’ I was like, ‘What do you want?’

Bentley’s request: “A six-pack of Busch Light and a roll of duct tape,” says Beathard.

And though singer delivered, he still doesn’t know exactly what Bentley wanted the duct tape for.

“That’s a great question,” Beathard, 21, says. “I didn’t ask.”

Beathard’s debut single, the lovelorn “Rock On,” has been climbing the charts all summer and recently hit the Top 10 on Billboard’s Hot Country Songs chart, but he clarifies the tune wasn’t inspired by any regret over a girl.

“It really wasn’t about a specific girl, because I think I was like 19 when I wrote it. I definitely didn’t plan on getting married when I wrote it. It was just one of those hooks that I thought of and I wanted to take advantage of it. It can kind of go beyond a girl standpoint. You’re pretty much telling anybody to rock on.

Beathard’s brand new EP Fight Like Hell is out now.
