Thomas Rhett To Launch First Headlining Tour In 2017

The Valory Music Co. artist Thomas Rhett will hit another milestone in 2017 as he launches his first headlining tour, the 2017 Home Team Tour, in February.

Joining him on the trek will be Kelsea Ballerini (who will embark on her own headlining tour this fall, prior to teaming with Thomas Rhett), as well as Russell Dickerson and Ryan Hurd.

“This is really the first time we’ve been able to totally build our own stage and really plan for our show with all our fans,” said Thomas Rhett. “There has been this undeniable energy out on the road this year, and I know having Kelsea out there is going to amp things up even more. Having my own tour also gives me the opportunity to introduce some people I think are going to explode in the next couple of years and help give them a platform to reach the fans, like how Blake, Toby and Jason did for me. I’m a huge fan of both Ryan and Russell and I can’t wait for my fans to get to know them too.”

The tour will launch Feb. 23 in Saginaw, Michigan’s Dow Event Center. The tour will end with a show in Nashville at the Ascend Amphitheater on April 21.

Thomas Rhett recently announced Tangled Up Deluxe, which will include five new tracks, including his new single, “Star Of The Show.” Tangled Up Deluxe releases Oct. 28.
