SHOVELS & ROPE'S 'MISSISSIPPI NUTHIN' & THREE MORE SONGS YOU NEED TO HEAR

Bailey Bryan, "Perspective":

Bailey Bryan's "Perspective" -- the second track off of an upcoming EP -- is an inspirational song about love. Although the track might be about falling head over heels, Bryan was sure to avoid clichés: "I'd rather sound like the biggest weirdo in the world than put out something sappy ... it's just not me," Bryan explains in a press release. "And the reason I like this one so much is because it really captures the core of what I think real love should be: something that reflects back on you and makes you see yourself in a different, more positive light. It came from a place in me that I didn't even know existed. It's my version of a love song and the first love song I've ever written." Bryan wrote "Perspective" alongside Fancy Hagood and Joe Ginsberg. -- CC
