FIRST COUNTRY: NEW MUSIC FROM ASHLEY MCBRYDE, SHERYL CROW, AUBRIE SELLERS, CAYLEE HAMMACK & MORE

Caylee Hammack, "Preciatcha"

After introducing herself to the country genre with the autobiographical "Family Tree," Hammack returns with the reflective breakup ballad "Preciatcha." Penned with Jordan Schmidt and Laura Veltz, the song has Hammack thanking an ex for the lessons he taught her before they said goodbye. Realizing what they had wasn't love, she is the bigger person in the story by saying, "I preciatcha/ Every time you made me cry/ Even how you said goodbye...But it taught me that isn't love." Her vulnerable vocals paired with reflective lyrics and memorable percussion further exemplify why Hammack is one of the most promising newcomers in the genre.
